

The diagram illustrates the structure of the ESD goal. At the top is the 'Economic and Social Development' goal. Below it are five dimensions: Economic Development, Social Development, Environmental Protection, Cultural Heritage, and Gender Equality. Each dimension is further broken down into specific indicators and sub-indicators. For example, under Economic Development, there are indicators like 'GDP per capita' and 'Employment rate', which are further broken down into sub-indicators like 'GDP per capita (constant prices)' and 'Employment rate (constant prices)'. The diagram shows a clear hierarchy from the goal down to the specific indicators and sub-indicators.
